Human rights and environmental complaints procedure

Amazon is committed to ensuring the people, workers, and communities that support our entire value chain are treated with fundamental dignity and respect. We strive to ensure that the products and services we provide are produced in a way that respects human rights. To achieve this we have dedicated teams in key sourcing regions that engage directly with suppliers to communicate our Supply Chain Standards, evaluate risks in our supply chain, and help suppliers build their capacities to provide working environments that are safe and respectful of human rights.

Human Rights and Environmental Emergencies

This form is not an emergency service. Don't use this site to report events presenting an immediate threat to life or property. Reports submitted through this service may not receive an immediate response. If you require emergency assistance, please contact your local authorities.
